Re: Mazaya Trading Co., SARL v. VCS Group, LLC, 11cv3195

Dear Judge Carter:

We are the attorneys for Plaintiff Mazaya Trading Co., SARL, in the captioned action. We were informed that the case has been re-assigned to Your Honor. The parties appeared before Judge Pauley on December 2, 2011 for the initial case conference, following which Judge Pauley issued a Scheduling Order. We enclose a copy of the Scheduling Order for your convenience. During the conference, Judge Pauley suggested that the parties seek mediation, and the parties agreed. He stated that he would stay all discovery activity until the middle of January to allow a mediation to proceed.

The parties subsequently agreed to a private mediation and had scheduled the mediation for January 10. The parties exchanged mediation briefs last week. Our client is a Lebanese-based corporation, and my client suffered an injury over the weekend that is preventing him from flying. Without the principal being able to attend, we were forced to postpone the mediation, but both parties have expressed a desire to re-schedule it.

It appears that it will be a few weeks before we can hold the mediation. While Judge Pauley did not formally set down the stay of discovery, we thought it would be prudent to notify Your Honor and request a continuation of the stay for a few more weeks. We respectfully request a 30 day extension. The parties also seek a 30 day extension of all discovery dates and deadlines set forth in the Scheduling Order to allow the mediation to proceed. This request is on consent of all parties.

Granted.

SO ORDERED:
